

CCFE Advisory 2009-01

January 13, 2009

Re: CCFE Trading Platform Product Reorganization

This advisory serves to announce the details of a planned configuration change to the CCFE Trading Platform that began in September 2008. The following product reorganization changes will be effective for trading on Monday, January 19, 2009.

Authorized Traders with direct access to the CCFE Trading Platform will notice the following product layout changes once the product reorganization has been completed:

- Existing Hub names will be changed from a long name convention to symbol
For example, Sulfur Financial Instrument will now read SFI.
See attached, CCFE hub abbrev changes, for a complete list of hub name changes.
- Existing Strip names for vintage specific markets will display only the contract year and month.
The reference to vintage will be in the hub name.
For example, the Sulfur Financial Instrument Jan09 V09 futures contract will now read SFI V09 Jan09.
- Inter-vintage spreads will no longer support derived pricing and will belong to a separate market Type, CCFE Inter Spreads. See the attached, CCFE Spreads Products and Markets, for a complete list of offered inter-vintage spread markets. Calendar Spreads will continue to have derived pricing.

API users are encouraged to review the attached documents which highlight the technical changes that will be made to the production environment during the maintenance window on January 16, 2009.

These contracts are currently set up and available in the API Test environment.

Reference Documents:

CCFE hub abbrev changes

http://www.ccfex.com/membership_ccfe/advisories/2008/docs/CCFE_hub_abbrev_changes.xls

CCFE market ID changes

http://www.ccfex.com/membership_ccfe/advisories/2008/docs/CCFE_reconfig_market_IDs.xls

CCFE Spreads Products and Markets

http://www.ccfex.com/membership_ccfe/advisories/2008/docs/CCFE_Spreads_Products_and_Markets.xls

Questions pertaining to this advisory may be addressed to:

Michael Stern
312.229.5151
mstern@ccfe.com

Bill Boyk
312.554.1019
bboyk@ccfe.com